President's Report

Steady Progress

We recently had our five-year accreditation review by New York State Association of Independent Schools (NYSAIS). This is an interim review, the midpoint of the 10-year major visitation that all member schools have. It was an opportunity for us to give them a progress report on how well we were doing in implementing the various recommendations that they made in their decennial visit back in the spring of 2015. We had a lot of good things to report in the four and a half years since they were last with us:

- Renovated all five science labs, improving life safety issues dramatically;
- Renovated the cafeteria;
- Renovated the locker room;
- Renovated the lecture hall;
- Renovated three classrooms as models for future renovations;
- Completed our first strategic plan;
- Completed a curriculum review that led to a new schedule that now includes a daily "Community Time" mid-morning;
- Grew the REACH Program by 50%;
- Established a better support system for REACH graduates at Regis and elsewhere;
- Set Annual Fund giving records in three of the last four years;
- Addressed health and safety concerns with the addition of a full-time nurse and two full-time security guards (paid for compliments of New York City); implemented card readers for attendance and fire drill safety;
- Introduced a new student information computer system;
- Added an additional college counselor;
- Provided more financial support for students who need assistance with everything from commuting to computers to lunch money.

It would be fair to say that the visiting team was impressed with what they saw, and while we do not have their final report yet – and there will be, of course, further recommendations for improvements – I am proud that Regis High School continues to improve year after year.

This edition of our magazine includes our Annual Report. We were able to accomplish so much in recent years because of the incredibly strong support that we receive from so many members of our community. Thank you! We would not be able to renovate this historic building, we would not be adding programs and personnel, and we would not be able to pay our talented and dedicated faculty at levels equal to other NYC private schools without the support that we continue to receive from alumni, parents, and friends of Regis High School.

While preparing for a visitation committee can be painful, and hosting the committee can be a little nerve wracking, it is also a time to see how far we have come in many important areas. Our strategic plan points to a number of places where we think we can continue to improve, so I'm confident that when it is time for our next NYSAIS visitation five years from now, we will have even more good news to report about what is happening on 84th Street. Thank you for helping to make that possible.

Be assured of my prayers for you and the entire Regis community.

TRANSFORMING LIVES

THE 2020 ANNUAL FUND

Founded by One, Sustained by Many

Regis changes lives.

The 2019 Annual Fund: Live the Mission, which ended on June 30, reached $9 million from over 5,000 donors, meeting our operating income budget and soaring to the second best Annual Fund in Regis history. The tremendous and loyal support of our alumni, families, and friends continues the transformative opportunity of a Regis education, one envisioned by the Foundress.

Funding a Transformative Education

From 2014 to 2019, the Annual Fund nearly doubled in revenue — a testament to the remarkable generosity of our community. In the last three years, the Annual Fund has raised $10 million more than it did in the previous three years. This momentum has enabled us to achieve our ambitious yet necessary annual income goals that help to cover operating expenses and keep Regis in the black despite being tuition-free. From our superior faculty to retreat programs and building upkeep, the Annual Fund fuels the daily life of the school.

Protecting the Endowment

Although Regis has never been fully endowed, the legacy of excellence initiated by the Founding Family has continued through the annual giving of our alumni, families, and friends. As a result of recent robust Annual Fund achievements, withdrawals from the endowment have remained a consistent and responsible 4%. As of this past June, the endowment had reached $99.7 million. As we begin our 2020 Annual Fund, we must again meet our annual income needs in order to keep the endowment growing. A strong Annual Fund protects the school's endowment, and both sources of revenue are essential to the school's unique business model.

OPERATING EXPENSES

2018-2019 Fiscal Year

Instruction	$6,368,000
Administration	3,296,000
Student Activities	1,663,000
Development	1,268,000
Operations & Maintenance	893,000
REACH	867,000
Alumni Events & Publications	196,000
Parents Club	99,000

Total Operating Expenses $14,650,000

Capital Expenditures 475,000

AF Gifts Restricted to Endowment 597,000

OPERATING INCOME

2018-2019 Fiscal Year

Annual Fund	$9,004,000
Endowment Withdrawal	3,449,000
Fees and Services	2,024,000
Parents Club	632,000
REACH Gifts	330,000
Student Activities	201,000
Alumni Events	157,000

Total Operating Income $15,797,000

For the fourth year in a row, we achieved a net operating surplus, permitting a return to the endowment and funding for capital projects around the building.

For the fourth year in a row, the success of the Annual Fund not only helped us meet our budget but also permitted a return of funds to the endowment. At the cost of roughly $25,000 per student, Regis educates young men at about half the cost of other private high schools in New York City.

Regis Bar Association Launches Hon. John F. Keenan '47 Lecture Series

The Regis Bar Association on September 25 launched its new Hon. John F. Keenan '47 Lecture Series with a fascinating discussion with Judge Keenan himself. Keenan, the legendary former prosecutor and longtime federal judge, returned to Regis and entertained roughly 100 alumni and friends with memories of the notable cases he has prosecuted and presided over.

Todd Cosenza '91, a partner at Willkie Farr & Gallagher, deftly moderated the conversation, which is the first in a new annual series that will feature distinguished lawyers from the Regis family. The series is fittingly named given Keenan's sterling legal career.

After graduating from Regis in 1947 and Manhattan College in 1951, Keenan earned a law degree from Fordham University in 1954. His law career was put on hold to join the U.S. Army, where he was assigned to the Army Security Agency and stationed in Tokyo from 1954 to 1956 during the Korean War. Soon after completing his service and after a four-month stint at a law firm — the only time he spent in private practice — Keenan found his way to the District Attorney's office, where he was appointed assistant district attorney in New York County. He later served as chief assistant under District Attorney Robert Morgenthau. While chief assistant, Keenan led the homicide bureau during its prosecutions of some of the most notable murder cases in New York City.

President Ronald Reagan appointed Keenan to the position of United States district judge for the Southern District of New York in 1983, a position he has held for 36 years. On May 19, 2016 at the Daniel Patrick Moynihan U.S. Courthouse at 500 Pearl Street, the 9th Floor Ceremonial Courtroom for the Southern District of New York was renamed the Hon. John F. Keenan Ceremonial Courtroom.

"It was an honor to have Judge Keenan back in the building, and to have him lead off this lecture series appropriately named after him," said Regis President Fr. Daniel K. Lahart, S.J. "His storied past, along with his sharp intellect and remarkable memory, made for a very enjoyable evening. I was touched as he concluded with a tribute to what Regis meant to him and to all the other Regians in the room. It reminds us of why we do what we do every day here on 84th Street."

In those closing remarks, Keenan spoke directly to Fr. Lahart and offered glowing praise for his alma mater.

"The education, Father, that you give to young men — to boys — it prepares them for life," Keenan said. "It teaches them how to think, how to express themselves. It's incredible."

A full video recording of the lecture is available at regis.org.

German Students Perform in 25th Annual Oktoberfest

For the 25th consecutive year, Dr. Eelka Lampe and Regis German students hosted their annual Oktoberfest celebration on Wednesday, October 30. The cabaret show featured original performances — in English and German — from each class year of German students. Following the show, all the participants and the significant crowd assembled to watch gathered in the Regis cafeteria for bratwursts and other German delicacies.

"Celebrating the 25th Oktoberfest Cabaret is quite a milestone of collective creativity! It is largely the students' ideas and writing that creates the show," Dr. Lampe said. "The event has become a staple and highlight of the German Program but enjoyed by many in the community."

Dr. Lampe said she heard from many former students who celebrated the 25th anniversary by sharing their fond memories of past performances.

"It was really special to receive a number of emails from alumni even dating back to the mid-90s," the longtime Regis German teacher said. "Rich Brockmeyer '97 actually came to see the show and stayed for the feast afterwards. Thanks to the amazing support of the Parents' Club the Bratwurst Feast has grown exponentially over the years!"

Peter Labbat '83 P'23 Honored With 2019 Deo et Patriae Award

Former Regis High School Board of Trustees Chairman Peter Labbat '83 P'23 was honored with the Deo et Patriae Award on Wednesday, Nov. 6. Established in 1981, the annual award is presented to a person who has served Regis and the community in a distinguished capacity.

"I'm grateful to Pete for his intense love of Regis, for his extreme dedication to this place that all of us love," Regis President Rev. Daniel K. Lahart, S.J. said. "Pete, for your many years of dedication and your life of service to so many of us here on 84th Street for so long, thank you."

Labbat accepted the award during the Deo et Patriae Reception and Celebration, which recognizes all those who supported Regis at the Order of the Owl level during the previous fiscal year. The son of immigrant parents who left Egypt to escape anti-Christian discrimination, Labbat spoke passionately about the role his alma mater played in his formation.

"Regis delivers so much more than just a great academic education. It delivers a spiritual one designed to shape a young man's character so that he realizes his place in the world and his duty to others."

Labbat joined the Board of Trustees in 2005 and served two consecutive three-year terms. After a one-year hiatus, he returned to the Board in 2012 as Vice-Chairman and then led the Board as Chairman from 2013-2019. He oversaw the celebration of Regis' centennial and the search process that resulted in the hiring of Fr. Lahart as the school's 23rd president.

A graduate of Georgetown University and the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania, Labbat serves as managing partner at Energy Capital Partners, a private equity firm focused on investing in North America's energy infrastructure. He and his wife, Karen, live in Brooklyn with their two sons.

"Regis really shouldn't be giving me an award to say thank you," Labbat said. "For I can never say thank you enough to Regis for what I've received here."

Regis Ranked #1 Catholic High School

For the fifth consecutive year, Niche ranked Regis as the top Catholic high school in the United States. Niche is the largest website for researching K-12 schools in the country.

Regis earned its #1 ranking for 2020 by scoring highly on a variety of factors, including SAT/ACT scores, student-teacher ratio, the quality of colleges our students consider, and reviews from students and parents. While schools do not provide information directly to Niche, the company obtains statistical data from the U.S. Department of Education and then analyzes it to create their annual rankings.

Regis Hosts Third Annual Grandparents Day

On Saturday, October 20, Regis High School hosted its Third Annual Grandparents Day. At 2:00 p.m., the doors opened for tours of the building, followed by Mass and lunch in the Regis cafeteria. Over 200 students and grandparents attended the event.

"Grandparents Day is always one of my favorite events of the year," said James Kennedy '02, Vice President of Development. "It is such a delight and privilege to welcome grandparents into our school. Grandparents play an important role in the Regis community, and it is enjoyable and meaningful to share an afternoon with them as their grandsons share their pride in Regis with their grandparents."

Alumni Offer Career Guidance to Seniors

On October 16, 26 Regis alumni returned to East 84th Street to reflect on their professional journeys and offer advice to the Class of 2020 for Senior-Alumni Career Day.

The morning began with a keynote address from Matthew Harrigan '03, the co-founder and CEO of Company, a first-of-its-kind New York City tech campus that houses startups, entrepreneurs, and established businesses under one roof. Harrigan reflected on the values and skills instilled in him at Regis, how he made the most of his time in college, and his non-linear career path.

Based on their interests, each Regis senior then attended three 30-minute, small group sessions featuring graduates representing ten different fields: Medicine, Law, Technology, Finance, Media and Entertainment, Sports Journalism, Entrepreneurship, Public Service and Government, Marketing/Communications, and Analytics.

"We are very grateful to the alumni who helped make Senior-Alumni Career Day successful yet again this year," Vice President for Development James Kennedy '02 said. "Our students gain valuable perspective and advice when hearing from fellow Regians who work in their fields of interest, which is especially timely as seniors consider college options and career planning."

Thank you to all of the alumni who made Senior-Alumni Career Day impactful for the Class of 2020:

Cross Country Races to Banner Season

The 2019 Regis Cross Country team had its best showing in years on both the varsity and the junior varsity levels.

At the Brewster Bear Classic, both varsity and junior varsity captured first place honors. Two weeks later, the varsity again won the team title, while the junior varsity took third, in the NYC Cross Country Carnival at Van Cortlandt Park. The varsity finished the season by taking fourth place in the CHSAA Varsity Intersectionals, earning a ticket to the State Federation Championship at Bowdoin Park for the second time in three years.

The team was led by senior co-captains James Gallagher '20, James Molz '20, and Colin Thoman '20, with lots of help from juniors Luke Ellwood '21, Matt Vizzini '21, Will Schimitsch '21, and Tom Cassidy '21.

"The work these guys put in this season was phenomenal. They started training in early June and built up to running over 60 miles per week," Cross Country Coach Mr. David Bonagura '99 said. "Their effort has born fruit in team titles and a chance to compete against the best schools at the State Championship in November. Hard work really does pay off."

Rev. Patrick Nolan, SJ, visited Regis in October for a thoughtful, humorous, and compelling assembly on vocations. Fr. Nolan, a Long Island Native, works at Boston College High School.

Ignatian Spirituality

The Fourth Day

By Rev. A.J. Rizzo, SJ
Director of Mission and Identity

In February, the Society of Jesus announced four new Universal Apostolic Preferences, priorities that will guide the work of Jesuits around the world for the next decade. This fall, Fr. Rizzo spoke to the Regis faculty about these preferences and how they can inform and shape the work done at Regis High School. A slightly condensed version of Fr. Rizzo's remarks follows.

The Universal Apostolic Preferences were released after a significant period of discernment involving Jesuit and lay colleagues, and they are meant to be lenses through which we view the work that Jesuit apostolates do throughout the world. They are:

1. To show the way to God through the Spiritual Exercises and discernment;
2. To walk with the poor, the outcasts of the world, those whose dignity has been violated, in a mission of reconciliation and justice;
3. To accompany young people in the creation of a hope-filled future;
4. To collaborate in the care of our Common Home.

I think it's helpful to consider these new Universal Apostolic Preferences not as a mere to-do list that we check off, but as openings to grace, where the real agent is God. The discernment process that led to these preferences has shown us where God's spirit is inviting the Society of Jesus – and Regis High School – to go.

These preferences offer us a lens through which we might see the interplay between our action and God's – what we do at Regis and how God is calling us to deepen our commitment to follow where God's Spirit might lead us. Jesuit Superior General Rev. Arthur Sosa's, SJ, concern about these preferences is that they should point us, in ways that transcend considerations of programming and planning, to places where God's word can be heard, God's gift can be received, in particularly clear and challenging ways.

These preferences invite us as a school to go to places of vulnerability, places that might seem threatening: to the realities of the marginalized, in our community and beyond; of the young entrusted to our care who seek a hope filled future; to the challenges of climate change, and of counteracting the environmental destruction being caused. These preferences are about letting God change us and the work we do here at Regis.

Given the obvious relevance to Regis as an educational apostolate, let's focus on the third preference – to accompany young people in the creation of a hope-filled future. The Synod on Youth, which gathered last year, lays out The Road to Emmaus as the paradigm for working with young people today. Permit me to walk you through the movements of this familiar Gospel passage:

Jesus walks with two disciples who have not grasped the meaning of all that happened to him, and are leaving Jerusalem and the community behind. Wanting to accompany them, he joins them on the way. Initially, the disciples are unaware that this man is Jesus. He asks them questions and listens patiently to their version of events; he helps them recognize what they are experiencing. Then, with affection and power, he proclaims the word to them, bringing their experience into dialogue with the Gospel. He accepts the invitation to stay with them as evening falls. As they listen to him speak, their hearts burn within them and their minds open; they then recognize him in the breaking of bread. These two companions then choose to resume their journey at once in the opposite direction, to return to the community and to share the experience of their encounter with the Risen Lord.

It seems to me that this paradigm is rich for us as Catholic educators in the Jesuit tradition. As Jesus walks with the disciples, he listens to them. As professionals, experts in our fields, whose job it is to teach but also to accompany young people, there can be an urge to provide pre-packaged answers and ready-made solutions, without allowing young people to live their questions, without allowing their real questions to emerge. If we do that before truly listening, we limit our ability to help them face the challenges those questions can pose. By really listening to the young people in our midst, by creating a listening culture in our school community, we communicate to our young men that their voices matter.

We can model for our young men the importance of listening in an age when it seems most people are just waiting for their turn to speak next, or where the noise of our digital universe severely inhibits our ability to truly listen to one another. Young people have much to teach us – they can help us to understand better the age in which we are living, and its hope-filled newness. But in order for us to be taught, we first have to listen – to our students, to their parents, and to each other.

Having listened, we can then facilitate an encounter for our young men – an encounter with the God of life, and with the truth of God's love for us. Youth, we are told in the universal apostolic preferences, is the stage of human life when individuals make the fundamental decisions by which they insert themselves into society, seek to give meaning to their existence, and realize their dreams. We want to be a part of that conversation with young people, in our parishes and in our schools, because we want to help them invite God into that conversation.

Making Time for Community

Community Time, a new addition to the updated Regis schedule, has created more opportunities to participate in a variety of extracurricular activities.

Long Island is better than New Jersey.
Queens is far superior to Brooklyn.

These proclamations — and many others — were thrown around a Regis cafeteria table on a recent Wednesday morning during a spirited sandwich making session. Roughly 30 Regians, including members of each class, had gathered at 10:15 a.m. to make Sunny Jam Sandies. Catalyst, a student-run organization devoted to the Jesuit ideal of service, spearheads this monthly activity that makes sunflower butter and jelly sandwiches that get donated to New York Common Pantry, a Manhattan organization dedicated to feeding the hungry. The students usually construct roughly 200 sandwiches during each 45-minute session, and they're aiming to donate at least 2,500 by June.

A year earlier, these Regians would not have performed this service work in the middle of a normal class day. But thanks to the advent of Community Time, Catalyst and other clubs are now able to host meetings and organize activities during school hours, and busy Regis students can participate in more activities than they could in the past.

Community Time was introduced this fall as part of a broader update of Regis' schedule, which is now on an 8-day (A-H) rotation. From 10:15-11:00 a.m. on most school days, students are encouraged to take advantage of Community Time by going to a club meeting, attending Mass, or meeting with a teacher in a resource center.

"Community Time allows our students to have an even more well-rounded, diverse experience at Regis," Principal Fr. Anthony Andreassi, CO, said. "During dedicated school periods, students are able to hone leadership skills, participate in a new club, volunteer to help those in need, grow spiritually, or visit with a faculty member. This break comes after most students have completed two classes, so it can also serve as an opportunity to just catch one's breath before usually two more classes and then lunch."

Erik Roll '20, one of the co-presidents of Catalyst, said the organization has already seen the benefits of Community Time. Once a week, the club hosts a service project at 10:15 a.m. in the cafeteria, rotating between Sunny Jam Sandies and the Patriot Project, which involves students cutting stars from decommissioned American flags to send to veterans and service members. Participation in these activities has increased since last year, Roll said, as a much larger group of students, many of whom can't attend after school because of sports practices and other responsibilities, are now able to join.

"It's really a helpful way for students to get involved in events that they want to get involved in but they wouldn't be able to if they held it after school," Roll said. "It's more flexible, and it's also much more inclusive."

While Catalyst, one of Regis' more popular activities, has taken advantage of Community Time, it also has been a boon for less thriving clubs. Francis Barth '20, the president of the Foreign Affairs Club, said Community Time has invigorated the sometimes attendance-challenged group.

"Between my freshman and junior years, there were really only a few meetings during the first trimester until the president would give up given the poor turnout," Barth said. "So far this year, every meeting has had at least 15 members engaging in topics ranging from the recent Israeli elections to the Turkish treatment of the Kurds. Fortunately, it appears that the club will continue throughout the school year."

Each morning, students have no shortage of options when Community Time arrives. At the same time the students prepared Summer Jam Sandies on that Wednesday this fall, Fr. Arthur Bender, S.J., '67 celebrated Mass in the Regis Chapel of the Sacred Heart, the Glee Club held a rehearsal on the fourth floor, Regis ECO met to discuss the ecological impact of recent California wildfires, and two sophomore advisement groups squared off in an intramural soccer game.

Community Time also allows Roll, Barth, and the rest of the student body to sharpen their leadership skills and enhance their time management and prioritization abilities. "This is time that we're setting aside for students to create as their time and space," Assistant Principal for Student Life Christian Mariano '99 said. "I don't dictate to anyone: You've got to do this; you've got to do this."

Barth, who also serves as Student Government President, said that, "Regians being Regians," there was some initial skepticism among the student body. But after just a few months, it's clear that Community Time — like debates about the superiority of one borough over another — is here to stay at Regis.

Summer Renovations

Two of Regis' most commonly used spaces received much-needed upgrades before the start of the 2019-2020 academic year.

When Regians arrived in September for the start of 2019-2020 academic year, two of the most commonly used spaces in the school looked quite different. Each summer, with students and faculty mostly absent, work is done at Regis to maintain our historic building and enhance spaces for our students. This year, among other projects, the Locker Room and the 5th floor Lecture Hall were completely renovated.

The generosity of the Regis family made both updates possible. Each year at the annual Parents' Club Auction, a new Auction Challenge is unveiled, identifying an important project or two for the school to undertake and asking the attendees for their support. The assembled Regis parents, alumni parents, and members of the Regis community responded by contributing more than $220,000 to support these two 2019 initiatives.

"Once again, our Auction Challenge donors rose to the occasion to provide us with the funds to make these much-needed improvements," Regis President Fr. Daniel K. Lahart, SJ, said. "Generations of Regis students will benefit from their remarkable generosity."

All those who donated to the Auction Challenge were invited to attend the official unveiling of the renovations on September 18. At the reception, Fr. Lahart expressed his gratitude and blessed the spaces.

"We dedicate these new spaces as part of our education of the youth to the progress of science and learning and healthy mind and body," he prayed. "May these spaces within this building continue to center our students and our teachers, and help to imbue them with words of truth and search for wisdom and God's Christian life, and we strive wholeheartedly to stand by Christ our teacher, He who lives and reigns forever and ever."

In the Locker Room, the construction team removed all existing lockers and installed 550 new, two-tiered lockers on new cinderblock bases, creating built-in benches on which students can sit. The gray lockers are surrounded by red borders, giving the Locker Room a more distinctly Regis feel. A new floor and new overhead lighting helps create a more welcoming environment for Regians.

The Lecture Hall, commonly referred to as the Physics Lecture Hall in the past, also received a complete revamping. The classic desks were removed and replaced by 160 theater-style red seats. (Regis made the removed desks available for purchase, and nostalgic alumni and parents jumped at the chance to own a piece of school history, purchasing them all.) The old chalkboards made way for modern whiteboards, and a new audiovisual system was installed. The updated room is more versatile and comfortable for the many classes held inside it each day, and it now serves as another wonderful location to host Regis events.

The Locker Room and Lecture Hall weren't the only rooms in the building to get a makeover this summer. In May, a small electrical fire broke out in the Science Research Project Room. Thanks to the work of the New York City Fire Department, no one was injured and the damage remained relatively contained, but it needed to be completely gutted and refurbished. The room directly below it sustained water damage, and as part of the necessary clean-up, new whiteboards and an updated audiovisual system were installed.

"Regis is blessed with a beautiful landmark building," Fr. Lahart said. "As we care for it and make needed enhancements, we remain so very grateful for all those who make these updates — and all that we do here on 84th Street — possible."

THE 2019 ANNUAL REPORT

Living the Mission

Thank You!

The Regis story is one marked by a unique and profound spirit of generosity, one started by the selfless gift of the Foundress and now continued by the remarkable support of the alumni, families, and friends of the school.

The 2019 Annual Fund: Live the Mission raised an incredible $9 million, covering roughly 60% of the operating expenses and continuing the five year trend of robust annual fund achievements. The success of last year's campaign would not have been possible without the tremendous support of more than 5,000 members of the Regis family.

The pages to follow recognize the many individuals who supported Regis this past year with gifts at the Order of the Owl level, along with matching gifts, foundation and corporation gifts, the senior parent gift, current parent giving, named scholarships, and St. John Francis Regis Society members. Visit regis.org/annualreport to view all giving categories.

On behalf of the noble hearts benefiting from a life-changing Regis education — thank you for making our mission possible!

Matching Gift Companies

Matching gifts are a great way to increase the impact of a gift by taking advantage of an employer's match employee charitable contributions. Some companies even double or triple the amount of their employee's gift! Check with your company's benefits department to see if Regis is eligible for a matching gift or contact the Development Office at giving@regis.org or (212) 288-1142 for assistance.

The following companies have matched gifts made to the Annual Fund from our alumni, families, and friends.

Reunion Recap

In 2019, 13 classes returned to Regis to celebrate reunions. Back together again, these groups of Regians had the chance to reflect on the milestones and memories they've shared together and enjoy an evening with old friends. Notably, the Class of 1969 celebrated its 50th reunion, and the Class of 1994 celebrated its 25th.

Don Hinfey, SJ sends regards to all from Africa, where he has been engaged in his great ministry for decades. He reports that he is still teaching in a seminary in Cape Coast, Ghana and is still much involved in retreats. Paul Giuffre notes that, after spending many years practicing law in Arkansas where he has been for 60 years, he still misses the New York metropolitan area. John McIvor also sends greetings after being unable this year to attend our annual reunion at Hurley's Saloon. He promises to join us at the 2020 reunion on our customary date, the first Thursday in June (6/4/20). We hope to see many of you at Hurley's then. Carroll and Bill Stein are celebrating two major events, their 65th wedding anniversary and the birth of their fourth great-grandchild.

Donal McCarthy,
finbarrhimself@gmail.com

The real class notes according to McCarthy: Sal Rand has accommodated our oft-repeated pleas for news by writing about his recent activity. As you may recall, he has continued an active, part-time professional life as a consultant to the petroleum industry, doing lab audits and teaching for ASTM and others. At 85 years, he is "considering cutting back a bit." Indeed! He and Agnes have traveled the world in these pursuits: China, Singapore, Australasia, the Middle East, South Africa, and all over Latin America. They have taken advantage of the trips by staying on for a visit when appropriate, e.g. three weeks in China after one week of work. Keep it up, Sal. Their children all have advanced degrees; they even have grandchildren with masters' degrees. Bernie Tracey circulated an email picturing him and Joan on a recent visit to Regis for Grandparents Day, which elicited an email from Bob Lavach mentioning his and Barbara's own G-Day visit to Gonzaga in DC. A phone call from Bill Foote failed to drum up your class rep's interest in attending Jug Night, but at least confirmed that the two of us are still alive, with some residual cognitive powers. Maureen and Don McCarthy's youngest child (aetas 48) has finally gotten married. (It's about time, Patrick.) Please let's keep those cards and letters coming, folks. Here ends the genuine McCarthy text.

Jerry Kappes,
jrkappes@optimum.net

Our classmate George Lardner died on Sept. 21; prayerful condolences to his family. The ace Owl reporter and honor card guru we fondly remember became a celebrated journalist who won a Pulitzer Prize for his investigative reporting of the murder of his daughter. From the New York Times obituary: "Mr. Lardner distinguished himself over nearly 30 years at the Washington Post, writing about assassinations, civil rights, savings-and-loan scandals, politics, and national security... maintaining a reputation for dogged investigative reporting and elegant writing." Mark Mazzetti '92 (Times chief D.C. investigative correspondent) salutes a brother Regian and expresses his personal "high regard for the great legacy" of George's life and achievements as a fellow journalist. In response to a note about dismissed classmates in our last Prowlings, George Culliney '54 writes: "I read about two good men in your class who didn't make it to graduation. I remember another: Jim Connell, who had to leave at the end of junior year, after flunking German, though Mr. Vogel told Jim he would've passed him had he known he was on probation. Jim was two years ahead of me at St. Brendan's School and at Regis, as were John (Red) Amabile and Bob Kleffmann. Jim was one of the finest guys I ever met, brilliant in math. He recruited me to join him in Army National Guard. A Master Sgt., his math skills served us well. I was with him 1954-60. He went to Hayes and St. John's after Regis." Bob Kleffmann replies: "George, What a blast from the past! Jim Connell and I were good friends at Regis; I frequently went to his house to study, taking pills occasionally to stay awake. Jim had a photographic memory which earned him A's in most subjects except for those he had no interest in and did not study, which is why he flunked out. We stayed in touch during college but lost touch when I moved to Connecticut. Another alumnus from our class at St. Brendan's besides John Amabile (who, I understand, no longer goes by "Red"), Jim, and myself was Martin Feeley. He also didn't make it through. I don't know what happened to him." John Amabile replies: "George, You sure know how to revive old memories! Yes, I was part of the SBS reprobates who used to enjoy a few beers at McChesney's, along with Dave LaBelle '51, SBS '47, Regis '51, and his classmate in both schools, Jim O'Rourke '51. Both were close friends, but over the years I lost track of Dave. (I do remember, however, that upon my daughter's graduation from college, Dave facilitated her first job.) Not so with Jim. After serving in the Navy, Jim entered Holy Cross in the class of '56, which was my year also. In fact, we roomed together in our senior year and remain close friends. As Bob Kleffmann has suggested, over the years I lost my red hair, indeed, most of my hair. Today, only my Regis classmates call me Red, and as old friends, that is their entitlement. Thanks for your update on Jim Connell. He, too, was a close friend from SBS with whom I lost contact after Regis. The same is true of my SBS classmate Martin Feeley." Tom O'Toole writes: "I have vague memory of Jim Connell as one with a special gift for a subject but not an across-the-board interest in all. It seems ludicrous to lose a scholarship by flunking German, a subject notoriously poorly taught at Regis back then. Currently, I will be teaching again in early 2020 the National Alliance on Mental Illness course entitled Family to Family. This is a 30-hour program for family members of adults living with a mental health condition while maintaining their own well-being." With the renovation of the Physics Lecture Hall, Larry Boland recalls: "Speaking of the Physics room, I remember a clique of wise-guys riding up and down the forbidden freight elevator. Imagine their surprise, and fright, when they opened the elevator gate to the physics room and were confronted by Chuck Taylor. Most are deceased, but not all. In the present, I traveled to Ireland in late October to show my older son the sites of our parents and grandparents homes. I still volunteer for the IEEE as Member-at-Large, and for the Knights of Columbus St. Joseph the Worker Committee, taking care of our church, rectory, and school." John Peloso reports: "Just finished two very good books: What We Become by Arturo Perez-Reverte, and So Much Left Over by Louis De Bernieres, both worth reading. On the volunteer front, Betty and I help out with breakfast once a month at a shelter in Bridgeport, Conn.; my specialty is making the pancakes, typically about 400 each sitting. Betty, who for many years was a docent at the Cloisters, is now a docent at the Fairfield Museum. I serve as a lector at Sunday Mass and continue to serve on the Committee on Character and Fitness for the New York Courts, interviewing applicants for the Bar after they pass the Bar Exam and as a condition for admittance to the New York Bar. I will continue for another year as counsel at my law firm (Morgan Lewis) and, beyond that, spend a fair amount of time trying to create paintings worth looking at." Bob Baron, after the car crash that resulted in two broken ribs and a break in his tibia, reports that his leg is now healed and he goes to the office three days a week. In mid-March, he will be leading Writers Sessions at the 11th World Wilderness Congress in Jaipur, India. Bob has previously run writers' programs in South Africa; Alaska; Merida, Mexico; and Salamanca, Spain. Bob Walker was inducted into the Stevens Institute of Technology Athletics Hall of Fame on October 11, 2019. His citation reads: "A member of the Class of 1958, Bob Walker was a two-sport athlete, competing in both basketball and soccer. On the court, Bob was a 500-point scorer and led the team in rebounding during both his junior and senior seasons. On the pitch, Walker was the starting goalkeeper and received honorable mention All-Middle Atlantic States Conference honors in 1957." Bob recalls the induction night: "After a reception, we adjourned to the auditorium in the beautiful original Stevens building (circa 1870) for the presentation of plaques. Then each inductee was interviewed by a professional sports announcer. It was a thrilling night for me and my ten family members who attended. The Stevens Hall of Fame was started about 25 years ago, and I had hoped to be inducted, but was starting to doubt it. Needless to say, I was tickled pink to learn of my selection." Jack Magan reports: "I have invested 25 years and over $1,000,000 in developing a pari-mutuel model and IT tool set that provides a distinct mathematical advantage over the betting public in playing the horses. The Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau tells me I have the best model and tool set they've seen anywhere throughout the pari-mutuel world. The tracks, in vying for my high dollar-volume wagering business, are offering me rebates of 12 1/2 cents on every dollar I bet, win or lose. The IRS has already decided that those rebates will come to me tax-free, as a return of capital. I am looking for investors interested in setting up a partnership agreement for this venture. You can reach me at jmagan@earthlink.net." Harry DeMaio writes: "85 and Still Alive! So far, 10 published Casebooks of Octavius Bear and 7 published Sherlock Holmes short stories. Octavius 11 is in progress." An Amazon customer (J. Magan) review: "I'm an 85-year-old man, an admitted Octavius Bear/Maury Meerkat addict. But this is more of an appeal to Hollywood's filmmakers than to the average reader: Octavius's fun-filled, tongue-in-cheek 'mysteries' are so cinematic by their very nature, that you'll wonder why it had taken you so long to be the first kid on your block to discover them."

Thomas Hickey,
tjhickey2@gmail.com

Once again we must begin our report with news of the passing of one of our brothers, Fr. George J. Michell. Unfortunately, I have no other information about George's passing other than that he was retired to a priests residence on Long Island. Our class held its semi-regular, summer get-together on September 5th at Pasquale's Rigoletto on Arthur Avenue in the Bronx. In attendance were Joe Barbosa, Bob Golden, Msgr. John Sullivan, John Cannon, Joe McDonald, Jack Hanlon, and Tom Hickey. Several classmates including Ed Jentz, Jim Paul, Jim Whelan, Jim (FL) McGuire, Jack Wallace, and John Duffy sent their regrets. As usual, the assembled Regians ate and drank lustily and shared a conversation liberally punctuated by the language of ailments and remedies. Also wending its way into our exchanges was the new-found vocabulary of life in a senior residence, its joys and vicissitudes but mostly relief. As always it was a joy to be together. Ed Kapp knows how to brighten our mood; he writes, "I have some good news for you and my fellow Regians, I am getting married in December. We will be married in Bakersfield (CA). Ed" Mazel tov!, Ed (in a language I'm learning at dinner in his senior residence). Dick Coleman's cousin forwarded the following quip: "What do Regis and Xavier students have in common?" "They both got into Xavier!" Yes, took me a couple of pauses too, but oh so satisfying! Tom Hickey's granddaughter, Miki (brother, Stefan Lainovic '10) finally returned to NYC after a year in Hong Kong working for a high-tech advertising agency. Huge sigh of relief! If you change any of your contact info, please update your entry in the Regis alumni directory and let me know via email or text message.

John Morris,
jmorris11@optonline.net

In May/June 2019, John Githens visited the Caucasus (Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, and Russia, all Christian countries) with university professors, some of whom taught John Russian at Yale. For John it was an eye-opening and mind-expanding experience. Later, John picked up his British/American nephew in Paris and brought him via Eurostar to London to attend a family event. Deepest condolences on the passing of Roland Donohue, who passed away on July 26, 2019. Rollo graduated from St. Bonaventure University and received a law degree from Fordham University Law School. He served for many years as an attorney with the Allstate Corporation. He was also a former Fire Commissioner of Point Lookout, NY. He wrote a regular column for, and was a highly esteemed member of, the Fishing Club of Point Lookout, NY. Over the years he was also involved with many charitable causes. In high school and thereafter, he was eminently approachable, had a great sense of humor, and was other-directed. Rollo was very appreciative of his Regis education, the friends that he made, and the teachers who inspired him. RIP. In terms of the 2019 Annual Fund, the Class of 1955 contributed $72,975 (29th place). Our Rate of Participation was 43.5% (25th place out of 72). Thanks again to all who contributed. In October 2019, we attended a "Celebration of Life" Mass in St. Mary's Church in Hamstead (North London). This is the church where Charles De Gaulle worshipped when he was stationed in London in World War II, rallying the Free French. The week before our visit, the pastor of the church attended in Rome the canonization of John Henry Cardinal Newman. Cardinal Newman joined other English saints like St. Thomas More, St. Thomas Becket, and St. John Fisher.

Paul Lennon,
paultlennon@optonline.net

This summer several of our classmates assembled in Norwalk, Connecticut to attend the wake and funeral of our beloved Jack Connelly. Jack was a regular at all of our reunions and special events every year. After college he returned to our alma mater and spent his career teaching at 84th Street and was a delight to all his students. He will be missed.

Packy Lawler, pjjal@verizon.net

In September, Dan Daly was in touch by telephone with Jerry Johnson for their mutual birthday. They were born on the same day in the same hospital in Bay Ridge, and have stayed in touch since their Regis days. They spent an hour on the phone reminiscing and catching up. The aforementioned Jerry followed up with the following notes for the Prowlings: "In August 2018 Kathy and I packed up our remaining furniture, clothes and other possessions, and moved from Saxtons River, VT, to Surprise, AZ, adjacent to Sun City West in the northwest corner of the Phoenix Valley. My daughter and her husband have been living in the southeast corner of the Valley since 2007. We ourselves had been 'snowbirding' in Sun City West since 2014 as renters and then as homeowners after we bought a house in mid-2016. In early 2018 when Kathy's son, a teaching radiologist, accepted a position at the Mayo Clinic here in Phoenix and the grandchildren would be here, we decided it was time to move here permanently. Jay and his family live in the northeast corner of the Valley, in Scottsdale. This has been an exciting year and continues to be so: anxiously awaiting the sale of Kathy's property in Vermont (it sold), adjusting to the new climate (one lives indoors in the summer rather than the winter), a few small health issues for both of us (stents, ruptured disc), house renovations (painting, tiling, shutters, re-roofing), various trips (Kathy's Vermont nostalgia, our excursion to Ciudad de Mexico and environs [sponsored by our Club Espanol where I'm now learning to speak and read Spanish], a cross-country road trip to Iowa for Kathy's high school reunion, a recent birthday trip to NYC) and now so many of our extended families close at hand: Kathy's son's, my daughter's, Kathy's brother and his wife who also bought a house here in 2016, Kathy's sister and her husband who just bought a house nearby this year, my granddaughter south of us in Tucson, and across the border in Los Angeles, my grandson! Oh, and Kathy has cousins east across the valley in Mesa, too. So it has definitely been a good move. We have a spare bedroom so we welcome those who want to visit the Valley and experience what the Valley of the Sun is really like." Brian Carney weighed in from Hungary. He plans to be in the States for Christmas, so had to pass on attending Jug Night. He finds that the trip is getting longer with age, but his three children and three grandchildren are a powerful draw, and he might be back in the future. Life is treating him and his family well, and he wishes the same for his classmates. He still credits Regis for much of the good in his life, a sentiment that I'm sure is shared by most of us. As of the deadline for this Prowlings, the following were planning to attend Jug Night: Bill Bartlett, John Hannaway, Jack Hyland, Packy Lawler, Jim Power, and Pat Ryan. Willie Werwaiss sent his regrets, due to back surgery, nothing major, he says, scheduled for that week. John Caronna reports that he and wife Ellen are now living in Needham, Massachusetts, near Marshfield, where Ed Sayre and his family have lived for years. He and Ed had lunch together recently; he finds Ed still active in his career, designing a chip for autonomous automobiles (see also below). John also had a recent dinner with Bob Arbour and Marie, up from New Jersey to visit their daughter Mary Catherine and their two grandchildren, Xavier and Gabriel. I am happy to report that Bob is apparently doing very well after his fall last year. Joe Vaira writes that his near-octogenarian status has come with some necessary changes in lifestyle, primarily giving up his driver's license and relying on his golf cart and Uber for transportation. He still gets to visit his son and his family down the coast in San Diego; he can enjoy the scenery more now, and has the time for fond memories of Jack Benny's "Life Begins at 80." Joe, as well as several of our classmates, enjoyed the (email) debate he stirred up regarding the creation of the universe. Bill Berlinghoff and Phyllis have sold their main (ha, ha) house in Farmington, Maine, and are heading south for the winter, helping with several Habitat for Humanity builds. When they return to Maine in the spring, it will be to their second home, the one in the woods, near Belfast. John Coyle, still ensconced in California, sent regrets that geography mitigates against Jug Night attendance, but sends best wishes to all classmates. Ray Begin and Rose are still healthy and are enjoying their retirement vacations. In August, they took a 14-day cruise in Alaska, including a helicopter ride to the Mendenhall snow fields where they "mushed" a team of 11 dogs. Ray bravely stood on the rungs of the sled for a good ½ mile of the trip. They also visited the giant Hubbard Glacier by mini-cruise. A mere two weeks later, they were at their timeshare on St. Martin for the 23rd consecutive year, where they narrowly escaped Hurricane Jerry. Finally, last November, they sailed on a four-masted schooner, with 200 passengers, from Barbados along the South American coast and through the Panama Canal; a 1200 mile trip all under sail. Ed Sayre writes: "Granddaughter Jess just began doctoral studies in Neuroscience at Princeton University. Grandson Alex is a senior in honors Biology at Westminster College in Salt Lake City. Wife Vivien just finished appraising quilts at the Cocheco quilt show in Rochester, NH. I formally retired from Santec, Inc., a full-service electronic connector company, but maintain a senior advisory position with them. Vivien and I are happy campers." They are going to try a few weeks of warm-weather vacationing this winter, and would welcome suggestions as to location.

mjnapoliello@comcast.net*

Michael Madden passed away last October. Numerous responses of sympathy have come from members of our class. Jeremiah Sullivan writes: "Mike and I attended the Maritime College together. A few years later, as a Coast Guard officer, I administered his exam for the Master's license. Mike went to sea for a few years and then got a Columbia MBA. He worked for a big bank briefly, hated it, and one day upped and quit to return to the merchant marine. Most of his later career involved marine survey work. When we were in college, we lived on the training ship, an old passenger vessel. Mike rigged up a television in his cabin and charged cadets a dime to watch it. He made about a dollar a night. Maybe that experience convinced him that he needed an MBA." From Michael Napoliello: "I gave Mike the moniker 'Zip' in freshman year, based on the results of a civic test. As I recall, Mike signed it 'Michael the Cool Cat Madden'. He also included some other hip expressions in his answers such as "19xx - that golden year." Mr. Egan, not finding the scenario humorous at all, told Madden 'you got a cool zero.' Thus the nickname 'Zip' was born. Upon reading his obituary, I came across a second nickname which he had picked up over the intervening years, 'Captain America.' The obituary also stipulated that donations be made to Regis. Mike was a good guy and good classmate." From Carlos Arnaldo: "Here in Manila, there was a colossal forum recently, questioning whether tertiary and professional education can really produce graduates ready to take over the new jobs. Several business companies sought answers to questions such as: Can graduates think and solve problems? Are they ready to take up leadership roles? Can they write and speak clearly? Apparently, they were disappointed with recent grads! When I look back on it, those were the things we learned in Regis. These things we also teach, or were taught in college Liberal Arts courses, but now Liberal Arts is going out of fashion, giving way to professional courses in medicine, law, engineering, business, accounting, IT, and technology. I think we learned all that in Regis because of the kind of Jesuits and lay teachers we had at that time, teachers who taught us how to think, speak, write, cooperate, and work. Perhaps learning these things is less a question of subjects than a mindset of the teacher and how he inspires learning in the students." John Friia writes: "The Venice trip was outstanding. The local guide was extremely knowledgeable about the sites and history of Venice; however, she was not quite certain as to the meaning of some of the Latin phrases printed on the ceilings throughout the Doge's Palace – and was very appreciative of my translations. Case in point: Since our Founding Fathers were all classicists, I imagine that Ben Franklin had been familiar with the Latin saying in the Doge's palace, Custodes Republicae, when upon exiting the Constitutional Convention he responded to a group of citizens asking what sort of government the delegates had created, 'A republic, if you can keep it.' In addition to seeing Tosca, we had a private operatic performance aboard the tour's barge. As President of the Suffolk Classical Society, I am once again in the process of creating approximately 1500 questions for our annual Certamen which will be held in March 2020." From George Garces: "On June 27, we closed on our patio home condo in Pittsburgh. We've downsized for this next chapter of our lives. Don't plan on moving again. In 52 years of marriage we closed on 12 properties located in 6 States. Florida led the closing score with 4, followed by Pennsylvania with 3. It was time to settle down." Ken McAloon, Michael Napoliello, and their significant others met in Concord, NH, at the annual (sometimes biennial) reunion of Regis New Hampshireites, the latter a misnomer, since Ken lives on Cape Cod and I was en route to visit his sister in North Conway. We shared some nice reminiscences on Father Brooks, Father Murray and Mr. Clancy. Next year we look forward to meeting with the true Regian New Hampshireites (Dennis Card, Bob Stanley) who were not able to attend this year due to schedule conflicts. The absence of the late Peter Lupario, a constant attendee at these reunions, was most poignantly felt. Ron Mellor writes: "Anne and I took a two-week road trip in May to Bavaria (Munich, etc.) and Austria (Salzburg, Melk, Vienna) – lots of museums, churches, castles, monasteries. We then went to Paris to be taken on the Orient Express – privately chartered for friends' sixtieth birthday – to the Italian Dolomites for four days of hiking and black tie parties and banquets at mountaintop restaurants reached by cable car. No one was murdered. Then in early June we returned to Los Angeles for a grand celebration of our 50th Anniversary with a dinner for 65 family and friends, with lots of mendacious tributes to our 'ideal marriage.' Now it is back to real life."

Leo Tymon, lftymon@msn.com

At the end of July, the NY luncheon group met at Maggie's, where our guest was Fr. Don Hinfey '50. He was back in New York for his annual visit and a break from his teaching position at the seminary in Cape Coast, Ghana. He returned to Africa in August, and sent his best to all of us for the reunion. Attending lunch from the class were Chris Conroy, John Felago, Doug Futuyma, Don McDonough, Mike Shef, and Leo Tymon. We will be looking forward to another lunch meeting in the fall. On September 14th, the class celebrated the 60th anniversary of graduation at Regis. For those who have not been back in a while, you might not recognize some of the classrooms and labs, which have undergone quite a change since we occupied our places there. After the tour, we remembered at mass the 26 members of the class known to be deceased. We had an excellent turnout for the evening, with 18 members of the class attending, along with many spouses. I understand Pat Villani joined for a while via telephone. By now everyone in the class should have received an email copy of the reunion photo sent by the alumni office. I also separately sent a caption for the photo and a spreadsheet with class information. If for some reason you have not received these items, please let me know. Here is a list of our classmates who attended: Trudy and Jim Alexander; Joanne and Tom Beirne; Jim Bonnell; Chris Conroy;

John Felago; Marty Gavin; Nina and Jack Godfrey; Rosemarie and Peter Heinegg; Ken Hepburn; Anne and John Lynagh; Kristen and Don McDonough; Roseanne and John Miscione; Paul Mulligan; Helen and John Nugent; Lorraine and Mike Shef; Christine and Ken Sommers; Kay and Gerry Swinarsky; and Leo Tymon.

Bill Quirin is in his 51st (and last, so he says) year of teaching mathematics and computer science at Adelphi University. John Werwaiss recently celebrated a reunion of his Georgetown roommates. John and his wife, Beth, were joined at dinner by Frank Nestor (and wife, Francie), Carl Utsinger (and wife, Cindy), and — from St. Peter's Prep — Charles Garbaccio (and wife, Jeri).

Let's begin with an article that Pete Madori sent me for the last issue. We were allowed to squeak it in after the submission deadline, but then it mysteriously fell off the printing press! "On the evening news a few months ago someone was being interviewed about the building of a high-rise prison in his neighborhood. Even though I had not seen him since graduation day, I immediately recognized Dominick Pistone. Thank God some of us have not aged!! Needless to say, he was upholding a true Ignatian Principle, expressing concern not for property values or neighborhood preservation but for the danger to inmates incarcerated in a high-rise building with limited means of egress in case of fire and other health and safety crises. Dom and I once shared a Bunson burner in Mr. Ladolcetta's chemistry class. Fellow chem class students will recall that we rarely needed the burner . . . or, for that matter, the lab itself." Pete went on to note his anniversary. "I am celebrating my

Golden Jubilee of priestly ordination this summer (actually May 31). Our class had a significant number of vocations, approximately 12% of the class. Included were two diocesan priests, twelve Jesuits, three Maryknollers, one Franciscan and one Dominican. Although the turbulent sixties eventually called some of us elsewhere, it is still a tribute to the spirit of Regis that so many considered spending their lives in the service of the Church." Dennis O'Connor is still working on the space station program. "It does get into your blood. I started in 1965 out of Manhattan College with Grumman on Long Island on the Lunar Module program. Ever since it has been space programs except for a few years on the F-14 upgrade of the back-seat avionics, radar, countermeasures, etc. I've been on the International Space Station program with Boeing since 1999. Mary retired in 2013 and we moved from Houston to Austin to be near some of our four grandkids. My plan was to work another six months and retire. But as it neared I kept pushing that date to the right. I am still about six months from retirement and still have a number of interesting things to work on. Outside of that played in the Texas Senior Olympics for about four years. Basketball came to an abrupt end in 2010 with prostate cancer and very damaging results from participation in a clinical trial at MD Anderson. I am now stage-4 but everything seems to be under control. I am thankful for this being my only medical problem as most people I know have more limiting issues. I feel badly about not staying in touch with those of you I knew but life seems to get in the way. Would love to hear from any of you. Phone 281-788-5232 or Doconnor43@att.net." Matt DeLuca will be heading to Atlanta for the fiftieth anniversary reunion of his Vietnam-based Army unit. In addition, he just signed a contract for his eleventh book. "It will be a textbook on the HR topic of Compensation and available on Amazon in April. It won't be a page-turner but somebody has to do it.” Phil Rossi sent this note on his retirement activities: “Though no longer teaching, the beginning of my ‘retirement’ continues to keep me academically involved. In July, Cambridge University Press published a short book that I was invited to write on Immanuel Kant’s political philosophy, The Ethical Commonwealth in History: Peace-making as the Moral Vocation of Humanity. Early August found me in Oslo, Norway, for the 13th International Kant Congress, where I made a presentation on Kant’s philosophy of religion. I’ll be traveling to Belgium at the end of October to give a paper at an international theology conference and then travel to Frankfurt to visit colleagues and to give a couple of lectures. Of at least equal importance, the opera season in Chicago got off to a grand start this month with a delightful production of The Barber of Seville. Rossini is still unsurpassed as the master of glorious silliness!” Tom Daley retired from his medical practice, but is still contributing his time and skills. “It has been five years since I retired from my role as Director of the Pediatric Residency program at St. Joseph’s Children’s Hospital, Paterson, NJ. The hospital was 56 miles from my home in Connecticut and the commute was becoming tiring after 14 years. Several months later, as planned, I began as a Voluntary Attending Pediatrician at Jacobi Medical Center in the Bronx. On three mornings each week, I participate with colleagues in teaching medical students and Pediatric residents. My friends and colleagues (and Betty, whom I married in 1969) encouraged me to engage in these activities while my teaching skills and clinical skills were still good. When there was a threat to the funding of Neighborhood Health Centers about 18 months ago (which eventually did not happen), I volunteered to be an unpaid pediatrician for one day each week at Norwalk Community Health Center, which is only 10 miles from my home. It is a pleasure to work with talented Pediatric staff members who are committed to serve the underserved. I still have Friday, Saturday and Sunday for gardening, fishing and watching my granddaughters play sports. The circle began in 1972 and continues to go around. I completed my residency in Pediatrics at the University of California in San Francisco and returned to New York to be in charge of teaching medical students on the Pediatric Service at Jacobi and also to care for Pediatric patients at Einstein’s community health center. In 1979, I moved on to be the Associate Director of Pediatrics at Bronx Lebanon Hospital in the South Bronx for 20 years and thereafter was at St. Joseph’s. My three children are delightful and successful adults. With a recent addition, they each have two children. Joe is a neurologist who specializes in sleep disorders and works at the VA and UAB in Birmingham. Katherine is a genetics counselor at NYU and lives close to us. Brian graduated from Duke Law and is a partner in a local law firm. He lives about 20 minutes away. Katherine and Brian (and their spouses and children) come to our house for dinner every Thursday. We also see Joe and his family about every three months. Life is good.” Tom also mentioned that the New York Times had an obituary notice about Mary Doyle Ahern (Geary Ahern’s widow). May they both rest in peace. Bob Kelly has been celebrating his birthday as the second-youngest member of our class. “Received a call from Tom Grella in September to congratulate me as the next-to-last classmate to hit 75. (Jay Chendo will be the last Golden Owl to reach that milestone on December 7th.) We celebrated with a trip to the Catskills and the Delaware River and have just returned from a New England/Canada cruise enduring 20-24 foot swells on the return to God’s country, Brooklyn, NY. Next stop — Yankee Stadium for the ALCS this week. Enjoying my six grandchildren (12 to 5 years) and continuing to embrace shifting paradigms. Non illegitimate carborundum sunt!” Nick Zirpolo was also on the road. “We were in Seattle recently for a day’s layover after a cruise up the Inland Passage to lower Alaska aboard the behemoth Ovation of the Seas and had a really cool experience. Our hotel gave us directions to a nearby Italian restaurant up a hill not too steep for wheelchair navigating. We found Razzi’s, a good-smelling place on busy Eastlake right alongside I-5. But it had only two tables out front and the rest were up six steps, not a wheelchair-friendly kind of thing. Sue went in to ask, and a joish owner came out, looked, and opened up a ten-table garden patio behind a hidden gate. He happily lowered the music to a volume that allowed us to talk but still blocked the truck traffic din out front. The food was New York-level Italian! It was an unexpected good afternoon that let us rest from our vacation.” Joe Carlucci sent an update on family activities. “I realize it’s not about me anymore, so here’s an update on some of the people in my life. My granddaughter Isabella is singing, acting, dancing and moving scenery in her freshman year in the Musical Theater program at Catholic University in D.C. Brava! I knew those hours I spent in stage crew at Regis would have an effect. At the same time, my teenage son Bernardo is spending most of his time at The School of Rock, and is performing on drums and bass with the School of Rock bands at (loud) rock clubs in NYC and on Long Island. He even played a couple of times at the Bitter End on Bleecker Street (remember it?) And finally, my spouse Cecilia has started a new business called Twisting the Plot. It’s designed for women who want to change the direction of their lives, but there’s a lot of stuff in there for us old fogies as well. There’s a podcast too!” Seb Pandolfo provided his own update: “In the modern version of those grandfathers who would pull long chains of plastic-wrapped photographs from their pockets and hold you hostage until you had complimented every one, I will bring my classmates up to date on the achievements of my grandchildren. Graham played his first game as goalie for the George Washington ice hockey team and won 4-1. Fifteen-year-old Miles has been promoted to the adult choir at his church. Six-year-old Lucy, a straight-A first grader, has been asked to move up to a competitive gymnastics team but doesn’t want to give up horseback riding lessons. I’ll release you now.”

Cosmo Salibello reported an “it-truly-is-a-small-world” experience: “I recently attended a business/social event. A close friend approached wanting me to meet his brother-in-law Juan from Buenos Aires, Argentina. As we spoke, I mentioned to Juan that I have relatives in Buenos Aires on my mom’s side. He asked what the family surname is. ‘Patalano,’ I replied. ‘Is Lino Patalano related to you?’ he asked. This was amazing! Lino (short for Salvatore) is a son of my great uncle. He is a (now retired) stage producer and director. I have never met Lino in person, but to randomly run into someone in Portland, OR, who knew him just blew me away. Might be Regis karma. We certainly were trained to become men-of-the-world.” And finally, David Eitelbach and Sarah made a quick trip from Seattle all the way to New York City for a must-attend wedding. I could not get over how kind New Yorkers were everywhere we went — they held the doors for us on elevators and restaurants; they gave us their seats on the subway! Finally Sarah pointed to my white hair. “They are just being nice to old folks,” she said!

In June Sean Moroney traveled from his Kailua, Hawaii home to attend a convention of the American Astronomical Society in St Louis. He was able to escape one evening to join Mark Olesnicki for supper at a restaurant on The Hill (local Italian neighborhood). They sampled toasted ravioli, calamari, and other dishes, using the 2.5 hours to catch up on 56 years. They also discussed the nature of Dark Matter and the current state of Blues Harmonica, among other topics. After dinner Mark drove Sean past the childhood homes of Yogi Berra and Joe Garagiola directly opposite each other on a nearby street. Sean and Mark hope to similarly meet in Hawaii sometime. After visiting with Mark, Sean spent some time at Maharishi Vedic City in Iowa, where he was welcomed as a returning teacher of TM. Bob Gardella and his love Linda continue their world travels, and he is still ok after his stent "acquisition" in 2016. This past spring and summer, they travelled to the Bay Area, Italy, and France. Bob wishes all his brothers health and happiness. Lucy and Bill Riebling traveled to Paris and Israel in October. His son Daniel has a solar project in Israel. Jack Prael reports that his family rented a house in Middletown, RI in August where they enjoyed the Newport beaches, visited a mansion, and enjoyed a few fine restaurants. They also enjoyed a 10-day tour of Canadian Capital cities with good friends Sue and Jay Fredericksen from Seattle, including dinner at a superb restaurant in Quebec City. Jack says Tauck runs outstanding tours, and they really enjoyed this one. Dick Chiarello tells us that daughter Elizabeth, a tenured professor at St. Louis University, is now a Radcliffe fellow for 2019-2020. His daughter Katherine was listed as a top litigator by Texas Monthly, and daughter Stephanie has produced, created, and is featured in her political satire variety show "Over the Lege," which has played in Austin TX for several years. His wife Barbara continues teaching at UTA and Huston-Tillotson University. Dick himself is keeping busy playing accordion in a Klessmer band and singing in the choir of Temple Beth Shalom for the high holidays. Paula and Bob Lowenstein attended their oldest grandson's (Brett McCarron '19) graduation from Regis in June. They also celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in August with a weeklong cruise to the Caribbean along with all their children and grandchildren. Kevin Morris reports that he and his wife and 900 strangers will set sail from Athens at the end of October for a cruise of the eastern Mediterranean. He keeps very busy continuing his auditing at Queens College, recruiting speakers for his homeowners' association in Flushing, and entertaining their four grandchildren aged 5 and under. Pat and John Tweedy enjoyed a cruise to Alaska in August with all their family, including eight grandkids, ranging from 12 to 20 years old. Five of the grandkids are now in college. Pat and John also got away in September on a cruise to Rome, Greece, and Turkey. Fr. Kelly and Mr. Quintavalle would have been astounded by how much John remembered while trying to read the classical Greek and Latin inscriptions on the ruins.

On May 12, Vince Alline sent an update on the Tellico Village Computer Users Club (TVCUC), which is 12 years old and has roughly 1,200 members. Their biggest program to date is the Technology Access Program (TAP), which refurbishes older donated computers and then gets them out to children in need. All donated computers are 100 percent wiped clean. On May 7, TAP celebrated their 10,000th child to benefit from a computer...a college-bound senior at Loudon High School. Vince lives in Loudon TN. ABC News picked up on the story and ran it on their evening broadcast. The Governor of Tennessee, Bill Lee, authorized "A Day of Recognition" and the Tennessee Senate passed a Proclamation honoring and commending TVCUC for providing in-home access to computers to the disadvantaged students in their community. Vince Alline is the co-chair of TAP and he explained to the audience that, "We use a program known as DBAN, which is a military grade wiping program, and it does three full passes that are overwriting the hard drive and totally wiping it clean." Vince's charitable work is a reflection of the term 'Men for Others.' Bob Shullman was kind enough to report that: "On Monday, June 17th, the annual Regis golf outing occurred at a new venue, Pelham Country Club. About 100 alumni participated in the outing with four from our class playing the 18 holes: Ken Kelly, Jim Oliviero, Rich Shanley, and Bob Shullman. Amazingly, all four are still enjoying working some years beyond what used to be considered one's typical age to retire. How many others in our class are still working? As far as the foursome's golf scores worked out, all their scores came in under 100 but not low enough to win any of the top event awards. As far as other awards went, Ken and Bob won some wine and gift certificates to the golf shop." In July Barney Owens emailed: "A few notes. On May 31st, we accepted an offer on our farm. We are moving from Burton, Ohio, to Maine. I also wrecked my motorcycle, ending one part of my life. I am fine. Also, in December, my son, the Very Reverend Bernard J. Owens, was installed as the 12th Dean of Trinity Cathedral in Cleveland." For those who forgot from an earlier Prowlings, Barney has ridden his 1250cc motorcycle for years. When Bob Schmidt heard that Barney was moving to Maine, he commented "Ah, the movement from cities to the country. Gillian and I moved to Maine in 2011. Lobsters moving up to Canada (cooler) and maybe we should also. Acadia National Park broke its one-day visitor record on July 5th, paralyzing all the roads. Number of 100 degree days that Bar Harbor has had since record keeping in the mid-19th century: Z-E-R-O." On July 2nd another classmate, John Steinmuller, sent word that "for the last few weeks Sheila and I have been busy planning, packing and getting ready for our move from Lawrenceville, NJ, to Vienna, VA. The move is scheduled for next week and we have been running back and forth to our new abode." I think you all recall the email this summer from Regis offering for sale at $100 each the old wooden desk and chair combinations from the Physics Lecture Hall. Frank Silvestri was so shocked that he wrote to our group "I don't know about you, but I was kind of taken aback when I got the email announcing that genuine Regis antiques are available for purchase. I didn't know alumni were for sale." On August 7th Marty Besant commented that "last month, fear of climate change caused me to buy an electric car. No, cannot afford a Tesla. But proud of myself that I can charge each night, off peak and all renewable...the 'horsemen' are booked to Barcelona end of February and early March. Best time to be out of Buffalo." For those who don't recall the names of the 'horsemen' who travelled to Portugal last January, they are Tom Girolamo, Rob Haberski, Dennis Moulton, and Marty Besant. Our 55th class reunion has come and gone...and those who could not attend certainly missed a wonderful occasion on Saturday, September 14th. It began with a tour of Regis at 4:00 p.m. and Mass in the chapel at 5:00 p.m. During the Mass I recited from the altar the names of our eighteen deceased classmates. The names brought old memories of them to all of us... and they were good memories. Cocktails and dinner were fun-filled hours with everyone catching up with each other. Prior to the actual date, there were rumors that Lt. Col. John Keane would be stationed at the front door checking for '64 class rings. This prompted Jim Oliviero to quip, "the dog ate my ring," while Lou Fuoco added, "I'll be scouring eBay starting right now." Although our 50th reunion attracted 50 classmates and 33 spouses/partners, our 55th reunion still recorded 20 classmates and 7 spouses/partners. The attendees included Marty Besant, Drs. Stephanie and Joe Coyne, Lou Fuoco, Tom Girolamo, Bob Haberski, Lt. Col. John Keane, Ken Kelly, Dennis Moulton, Jim Oliviero, Bernie Kennedy, Barney Owens, Louise and Lt. Col. Jim Pielli, Martin Quigley, Karen and Kevin Rodgers, Gillian Newstead and Bob Schmidt, Rich Shanley, Bob Shullman, Patricia McNamara and Louis Scheeder, Mary Cordato and Ron Trisal, and Lynne and Jeff Weinlandt. There were three additional classmates and two spouses who registered and paid for the party but their cancellations came in the 48 hours prior to the 14th. Christine and Frank Silvestri sent word late Thursday evening that "something else came up and we aren't going to be able to make the reunion." Peggy Jackson and Bob Metz emailed at 6:00 PM on Friday that "sometimes even the most anticipated events can't be realized. Unfortunately, Peggy and I won't be able to make it tomorrow evening. Perhaps this is a punishment for losing my ring? Our situation is a combination of health and a fortuitous event. I managed to trip crossing 72nd street earlier today. The afternoon was spent at Lenox Hill emergency room. I've been stitched up and CAT scans of the head and neck indicate no major problem, but the aches and pain are real. Earlier this week our second grandchild arrived sooner than expected and the plan was to leave early Sunday morning for Pennsylvania. I think this old body will need all of Saturday to recover if we are going to make it to that introduction. In any event my best to all and I look forward to our 60th." The third classmate to cancel was Frank Michel... at 11:30 a.m. on Saturday: "I also have to bow out tonight. I had serious dental work earlier this week that I hadn't anticipated and it's left me unable to chew or speak clearly. A bit embarrassing but at least temporary. Please give a big hello to all for me." Anne Marie Keane was scheduled to attend but John Keane later relayed that "we both just got back from the Doctor's. We both have bronchitis and she was too sick to attend the reunion so she stayed in the hotel. I had a great time with some of the doctors at my table where we compared surgeries as in who had the most done to them. I think I won." Mike Christy couldn't make it but sent word on August 7th that "Sue and I will be celebrating 50 big ones on August 9th. Like most of my classmates, I clearly married up. Best to all and hope to make the 60th." Rosemarie and Ron Malanga also missed the event because "our youngest daughter is expecting her first child in September and we will be on either pre- or post-birth duty at that point." Dave Ritchie, Jr., a regular attendee at all of our semi-annual dinners at Brendan's in NYC, emailed on August 7th that "I am going to skip this reunion. Cathy, my wife of 49 years, 5 months and 9 days, passed away on May 29, 2019 and I just want some time to pass before I go back to a Regis event. I'd rather you not make any announcement of the passing until it fits into a Prowlings type of announcement. My good friend Ron Trisal is aware of my note to you because he and I do coordinate things like this. Ron was at the funeral."

Joe Featherston retired as an Assistant Principal with the NYCDOE on July 1st but missed the everyday interaction with the students and is now back at his same school in Rockaway Beach as an Assistant Principal, but only a few days a week. Jack Cashill just returned from Ephesus, where he has been working on a documentary on the life of Mary. His second novel, The Hunt, will be published in December. Tom Moebus writes, "I wanted to let you know about an exciting new Regis project that I have had a hand in with Christian Mariano '99, the Assistant Principal of Student Life at Regis, and a colleague of mine from China, Wei Lin. I hope to interest our class in 'adopting' the project, as a reminder of the international travel that a number of us enjoyed during our years at Regis. The project is called the Matteo Ricci Youth Scholars for International Development. It will involve a two-week trip for 10 Regis students (sophomores and juniors), to Nanjing, China, to partner with 10 English-speaking Chinese students for an intensive program of education, collaboration, and friendship development in June 2020. The great fortune of our connections in China is that the entirety of the program (programming, lodging, food, travel in China) will be funded by the government of Jiangsu Province, through my colleague's extensive relationships. The only cost to Regis and its students will be airfare and incidentals (roughly $1,000 each). I have two ideas about how we might be involved. First is to gather some donations that would support those students who could not otherwise afford the air fare. Such students could be sponsored by the Class of 1965. More interestingly, we'd like to welcome members of the class to consider accompanying the student group to Nanjing to observe/participate in some of the programming, and also enjoy the hospitality of a unique visit to China. My colleague would use her connections to help arrange this element at reasonable cost. Time frame is late June 2020. More information to follow."

Vinny Mosco is happy to announce the arrival of his grandson Colin Douglas Morton, born July 11. Vinny is also the author of a new book, his 26th. The Smart City in a Digital World critically examines the impact of information technology on cities. In other grandkids news, John Van Name reports, "My son John and his wife Jamie welcomed their second child on September 19. His name is Andrew John Van Name. That makes 5 grandchildren for Linda and me, four girls and a boy." Bob VerEecke, SJ has recently moved to Gonzaga Eastern Point Retreat House in Gloucester, MA. For anyone in the NY area, his production of A Dancer's Christmas will take place at the Ailey Theater (405 W. 55th St) on December 20/21. In October, Charles Webel wrote, "Buonasera di Catania! I'm here in Sicily officially to speak at a conference on Peace and Conflict Studies. However, given the venue, perhaps it's more appropriate to focus on Pizza and Convict Studies!" Toni & Richard Corelli took a five-week journey through Portugal and Spain where they explored 2,000 years of history from the Roman and Carthaginian settlements along the Mediterranean coast and the beautiful architecture of the 800-year Moorish occupation and the Reconquest by the Catholic monarchs. They returned to their home missing the earthquakes and power outages that had beset Northern California while they were gone. They now will be making plans for a return journey to New York next June for a 50th college reunion and hope to see as many fellow Regians as possible during their time in the Big Apple. As anticipated in Bob Cartwright's post in the Summer issue of this magazine, he, Clare and Ken Ryan and Marian (Hoogveen) and Gerry Moran met for drinks and dinner on the last day of July in the center of Amsterdam, passing a very convivial evening together.

Along with Bruce Springsteen, Meryl Streep, Billy Joel, and George Foreman, nearly all of us entered our (gulp) eighth decade this year. We canvassed classmates and here's what several did to their milestone birthday. Tom Curran: As a celebration of his arrival at year sixty plus ten, Tom and his wife, Mary Ann, traveled to Italy for 17 days this fall. First time for both. Tom said it was thrilling to see the world described by Latin teachers layered over by centuries of religious experience. The art, architecture, and magic of Rome, Florence, Tuscany, and Venice all came alive. They decided they need to return while both are still able to walk 23,000 steps on some days.

Anthony Lo Secco: "I had my 70th birthday Oct. 11 but it was just another day in Delray Beach (Florida). My wife Patricia's illness has been the primary concern for the past couple of years. She was diagnosed with Acute Myeloid Leukemia in February 2017 and underwent several rounds of chemo with some side effects. (While our class was enjoying the 50th reunion my wife was in the ICU with sepsis.) She went into remission for a year and change. We were able to go to our Italian home for 2018 but when we returned to Florida in October of 2018 a blood test revealed that the leukemia had returned. This time the treatment was chemo followed by a bone marrow transfer this past March. Now she's leukemia-free but suffering from Graft Versus Host Disease (GVHD). ... Since 2002 I have been teaching online. The advantage with this type of work is that you can work from any location with an Internet connection. The biggest disadvantage is that you are never away from work. I have worked from the beach, tourist and vacation locations, relatives' homes, and so forth. At one point I was planning to retire this September but once my wife relapsed I changed my mind and am still working. Since 2011 the amount of teaching has been dropping due to demographic and competitive changes. This is not necessarily a problem at age 70 as I have gone from working 50 hours a week to 10 to 12 hours. Somehow I still manage to fill all the hours of the day. The optimistic view is my wife will recover and we will go off to our Italian home in late April for the summer." Art Bender, SJ: "I am as busy as ever. I'm teaching my usual history classes to frosh, sophs, and seniors, but also have a Latin class (the juniors are tackling (or being tackled by?) Cicero at the moment, and Catullus and Ovid are waiting in the wings), and I teach a freshman theology class. I am co-moderating The Owl, where I have, as always, a great group of editors to do all the work. It is hard to believe that I am in my 30th year on the Regis faculty. It remains as enjoyable as ever." John Dean:

"My family (my wife Madeline, our three children, one son-in-law, and two grandchildren) visited Disneyland for an early celebration of my 70th, with everyone from age 2 to almost, but not quite, 70 having a great time. The attractions were fun but just being together with everyone was the best part. As an added bonus, I was in LA the day after the Nationals eliminated the Dodgers from the playoffs and wore my Nationals gear all over town, gloating all day long. As one who hasn't forgiven the Dodgers for leaving Brooklyn, it felt good to inflict a bit of pain on the city that stole our team. In other news, I'm finishing up my first full season in the Northern Virginia Senior Softball League and made the All Star team this summer. My skills developed from years of stickball served me well." Bill Armbruster: "Bill Armbruster celebrated his 70th by going to a Mets game at Citi Field that night with his son and some friends. Despite the fact that Bill has been a fan since Day One in 1962, the Mets had the audacity to lose. A three-run homer by rookie slugger Pete Alonso put the Mets ahead in the 5th inning, but as happened so often this season, the Mets pitchers failed to hold the lead. Bill's disappointment at the Mets' loss was eased by the company and a great fireworks show after the game." Paul Litka: "I cannot tell you that I gave a great deal of attention to my 70th birthday. The 50th anniversary reunion at Regis was much more, for me, an occasion to reflect. I keep busy these days teaching English, taking a few courses at the University, enjoying time with my grandson, etc., etc. I am not sure how I ever managed to have enough time to hold down a job before retirement." Jim Keaney (who was visiting Paul in South Jordan, Utah, after a detour to Arizona): "My Social Security triples! Bring it on!!" Sal DeLuca: "'You can't reach old age by another man's road.' - Mark Twain on his 70th birthday. But segueing into more mundane current matters, my 70th actually fell on the day before Jug Night. We orchestrated a two-pronged celebration — first a five-day trip to Paris in the beginning of October with our son and his wife (the well-traveled Chicago duo), which feted several other milestones besides my birthday, and then a small dinner party on October 26th with immediate family and a few close friends. Seventy old? What's old? I'm still running track for Mr. Ferguson!" Victor Skowronski: "No 70th birthday event to tell you about, but there is something significant that happened recently. The Capital English Country Dancers had their 30th Anniversary celebration in Albany two weeks ago. As someone who helped out very early in their history, I was invited to attend. I was also asked to write a dance to honor the foundress, Nancy Yule. The result was The Yule's Tide, a dance that I choreographed to a Mozart contredance (see attached file). I received quite a few compliments on the English country dance, in the form danced by Jane Austen.” [Ask Chris Connell if you’d like to see the sheet music.]

Eugene Lugano: “My 70th in June was definitely low key and free of too many deep musings on the significance: lunch at a good ramen shop with Marcia and our kids; a piece of my favorite birthday cake, carrot, which Marcia made from scratch; a bottle of really good wine- a 1985 Rhône, Côte Roti, not quite half as old as me. That was just about right for me.”

Bob DeCresce: “I planned to go for a 70-mile bike ride to celebrate the landmark birthday. It started to rain very heavily so I had to cut it short at 40 to avoid the inevitable crash. Went back to my house and decided to celebrate my 40th birthday with a beer! Haven’t felt this young in years!!”

Bill Balcerski: “‘How terribly strange to be seventy.’ Simon and Garfunkel wrote this many years ago when for most, if not all, of us 70 was hardly imaginable. While it is now a reality, I am sure that won’t stop any of us ‘Old Friends’ from enjoying life even more than before. My wife Chris and I celebrated my milestone with a trip to the Oktoberfest in Munich, which has long been one of my bucket list destinations. Needless to say, we downed a few liters and feasted on pretzels, brats and roasted chicken at the Augustiner and Paulaner beer tents. On the same trip, we also visited “Mama Polska” (Warsaw and Krakow) — my motherland — as well as Prague and topped it off with a week in Switzerland where we got up close and personal with the Matterhorn. For my wife’s milestone this January, we will be heading off to Rwanda (to visit the gorillas) as well as Kenya, Tanzania and Zanzibar. LG.” (That’s shorthand for Life’s Good.)

Jack Alexander: “Karen and I just completed a 15-day tour of southern France, with stops in Nice, St Tropez and Monte-Carlo, joined on the first stop by Karen’s grandson for his first trip to France. Many beautiful sights, great meals, fancy cars, and great

Just months, not years, until our 50th Reunion. Please mark your calendars for the long weekend of June 11th-15th. If you are interested in the details, specific events, planning, want to be involved or otherwise help, especially beating the bushes for a good turnout, please contact Bruce Williamson at 434.825.9641 or brwj37@hotmail.com. Jack Martin was in Atlanta recently to cover the NLDS between Atlanta and St. Louis. He and your author (Kevin Conboy) met for breakfast before Game 5; for some reason, all record and other traces of the game have disappeared. Jack is well and though “retired,” he does 15 “events” per year for ESPN, enjoying his time with Chris Berman, Hubie Brown, and other “talent” and athletes. He is working on his golf game. He keeps up on a semi-regular basis with several classmates, including Rick Antosh, Buzz Doherty, Rick Peiser, and others. Jack Regan reports that he has recently been diagnosed with Stage 3 renal cancer. The prognosis for Jack is good, and he has been accepted to a very promising clinical trial at Emory's Winship Cancer Institute. He is looking forward to surgery early in 2020 and putting it in the rearview mirror. Jack and yours truly recently hosted Jim Harkins and wife Mary Butler from Amelia Island, Florida, visiting Atlanta for a long weekend. Sites visited included the Georgia Aquarium and Carter Presidential Museum and Library, and the three of us and our spouses dined at Manuel's Tavern, an Atlanta landmark. On the breaking of the two-hour mark for a marathon runner by the current fastest Kenyan in the world (unofficial, due to the use of pacers), Speedy Dan Gonzalez noted that he matched Dan's best mile time ever — 26 times. Frank Carroll and yours truly again are planning to join a mission trip to Kingston, Jamaica in February with the Missionaries of the Poor. Please contact one of us if you have an interest in joining us for this five-day trip (or more). More next time, including 50th Reunion details.

Our classmates have been hitting the road. Tom Abate visited Oklahoma City for Halloween to trick or treat with his three granddaughters, Rose (4), Iris (2), and Acacia (6 months). Bob Kelly traveled to Dublin, Ireland for a family wedding. He is looking forward to Christmas concerts by Princeton Pro Musica and Monmouth Civic Chorus, which will feature some of his poems. Bob is still working at the New Jersey Division of Law but is contemplating retirement. He and brother Frank Kelly report the sad news that their mother Mary died a few days after her 95th birthday. They also became grand uncles two times. Andy Schilling has been touring as the Omaha Chamber's director for international business development. In early October he received a grant from the Japan Foundation to travel to Tokyo and Hiroshima on their Grassroots Exchange Network program. He then visited Normandy France, where he led a delegation from Omaha that concluded a Friendship Agreement between Omaha and Omaha Beach. He and wife Tracy stayed on a few more days in Paris. John Canavan writes: "My wife Gail and I are happy to celebrate the recent wedding of our son, Scott, which took place June 22nd in Morristown NJ. Two down, five to go." Len Scarpinato writes: "My son Mark is interviewing for Internal Medicine residencies to start 7/1/20. I am still working in Chicago as CMO of 5 (soon 7) clinics for a company based in Florida. Recently Tom Dudar and I attended a Chicago Regis reunion — thank you Regis for appetizers and drinks! Tom and wife Mary recently looked at housing in Deerfield Beach FL — location of Casa Scarpinato South! Hope the new retirees settle there!" Ray Girnys writes: "Sorry to say I underwent total hip replacement last month. Had a myriad of complications but finally home undergoing rehab. Hope to bounce back soon. Love to all."

Alberto Acosta writes: "It was great to see so many of our classmates and celebrate the 45th anniversary of our Regis graduation. 2019 was also a landmark year on several other counts. On a personal level, Rebecca and I celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary; our daughter Ana Sophia (senior at Tufts University) turned 21; and our son Nico (senior at Trinity High School) turned 18. On a professional level, I celebrated my 20th anniversary as Executive Director for Medical Services at Ingersoll-Rand and the 30th anniversary of being on the staff/faculty of The New York-Presbyterian Hospital/Weill Cornell College of Medicine. After all these years, I am still living on Manhattan's Upper East Side — some things may never change!" Thomas Cannon writes: "Greeting from Arizona. Like many of our classmates, I am pleased to announce that I have just retired. After doing a stint in the US Navy Submarine Service, I have spent the last 38 years working at the largest nuclear power plant in the US. I finished my career as the Director of Nuclear Fuel Procurement, traveling the world looking for deals on enriched uranium. I've been to most of the enrichment facilities in the world including those in Russia and China. Never made it to Iran though. My three children with four grandchildren all live in the Phoenix area so I think my wife, Barbara, and I will be staying in the area. Our extended family includes the McCarthy's. Dan McCarthy (with a six pack) came by the hotel my wife and I were staying our first night in Phoenix. Our families have been close ever since. When we're all together for a dinner, there are more than 20 of the McCarthy/Cannon clan around the table. I've picked up a couple of hobbies as I prepared for life outside the nuclear industry. I've taken up archery and for the last couple of years have been home brewing beer. At any given time I have three of my home brews on tap. I've gotten to the point where I am designing my own beers instead of just following a recipe. Dan McCarthy has helped with a few brews." (Editor's note: Thanks for the info, however, home brewing and archery are best not enjoyed together...) William O'Connell writes: "Lynne and I just returned from a whirlwind tour of Europe. We did not retrace the stroll through the Brenner Pass — we figured we would save that for the RIA Revival Tour." Jim Drohan and Bob McCormik wrote a beautiful tribute to our late classmate Bill Corso. You can read it at regis.org/alumni.

Peter's younger daughter Emma will be starting at Loyola Chicago, as her older sister Anna heads into her senior year at McGill in Montreal. Peter has appreciated being in touch lately with several Regians who take seriously their call to be people for others. Paul Tumminia '77 reached out to talk about responding to the crisis on our southern border. Phil Guarco '78 shared from Miami that he's serving on the board of the local Cristo Rey school. And Peter was glad to catch up recently

Peter would love to catch up with other Regis contemporaries in the D.C. area! Timo McGillicuddy's play, The Irish Play (or the Orphan's Birthday), was a feature full-length play in the Sean O'Casey Festival at the O'Casey Community Center in Dublin this September 10, 11, 12, and 13. The week before it premiered at Nun's Island Theatre in Galway, September 3, 4, 5, and 6. A little shorter this time around, but I guess it will serve to leave some space on "our" page for the classes of '83 and '85! Mike Pender writes, "Life is often a circle and as such I have completed the roundabout and moved back to Brooklyn. So of course, my first weekend back in the motherland I went out to the Coney Island Irish-fair and who do I see but one Pat Dineen and Celtic Cross jamming on the boardwalk!" Mike and his wife, Tricia, also ran into another Regian at the fair, Tom Flood '85.

Also, for more on Pat's band check out their web site: <https://www.celticcross.com/>. Updating a story we mentioned a few issues ago, Greg Long's charity DanceOn has recently released a video on the subject of dancing and bullying. It stars JT Church ("Dancing with the Stars," "So You Think You Can Dance"); it's choreographed by Yossi Chaikin ("Hamilton"); and directed by Rich Hemmingway (Emmy winner for "Oprah"). It has 30 local (Chicago) dancers, including his son Jimmy, telling a story about rising up against bullying through dance. Take a look by searching "#DanceOn: The VIDEOE" on YouTube. And, in case you want more Greg Long news, he recently wrote that "as part of my wife, Mary, and my NFP charity, DanceOn, I participated in a Chicago fundraiser called Dancing with The Giordano Stars, which partners professional dancers with dance civilians to raise money for inner city school arts programs. Not only did we collect nearly $250,000 but my partner, Natasha Overturff, and I won! Those Regis dances really served me well!" In addition, his son, Gregory, plays for the nationally ranked Illinois State University Golf Club, and they won their first tournament with Greg, Jr. finishing 8th overall. Finally, Greg added that he is "very proud of my daughter, Julianna, who is in her first year at John Marshall Law School and taking her Jesuit undergrad degree to the next level!" Tune in next time for the continuing adventures of the Long family!

To the great class of '85 – we are light on news this issue, very light. Please forward and share all the good that is going on in life, where you need our prayers and support, and what we can do to grow the friendship we started in 1981 and have shared for nearly 40 years (where does the time go?). It is in true gratitude that we thank alma mater for all that it has shared with us. We learn, live, and give so that those who follow us can revel in what the Foundress made possible and grow a mission that is life-changing for everyone who experiences it. On that note, please join me in thanking a Regian from the Class of 1983, Peter Labbat '83, for the time, talent, treasure, and leadership he has gifted to Regis over his tenure as Board member and Chair. His intellect, investment, and thoughtfulness are treasured gifts – and they were made with the intention of stewarding the Regis of today to be the Regis of tomorrow. St. Ignatius shared: "Love consists of sharing what one has and what one is with those one loves. Love ought to show itself in deeds more than words." We learn, live, give and love – and you inspire us to do more, Pete, through your fine Ignatian example. Thank you!

After an accomplished career as a chef at some of New York's top dining establishments, Nick Anderer opened his own restaurant this fall. Anton's, which is in the West Village and named after Nick's great great grandfather, is an "ode to Old New York," according to New York Magazine. Congratulations, Nick!

Shaun Leonardo completed another art project; this time at the New Museum entitled Mirror/Echo/Tilt. Google "Mirror/Echo/Tilt" to find the New Museum link and a write-up from the New York Times. In other news, I got married in the Regis Chapel on September 7th to a Marymount alum. I will keep you in suspense until the next issue for all the Perez Hilton-worthy details.

time at Regis, they ended up as roommates during a weekend "training camp" over the summer where, through the course of getting to know one another, they stumbled upon their shared alma mater. Mickey humbly reports that John is a significantly better runner than he'll ever be. But he still hopes that they both make Mr. Donodeo proud on that first Sunday in November. Matt Hansen, Mark Cummins, Joe Tursi, Rob Cacace, Pat Connorton, Kevin Clancy, and Brendan Barker gathered to celebrate a friend's wedding this fall.

Charlie Bonello and his wife, Kathleen, welcomed Grace Kathleen Bonello into the world on May 23rd! She thankfully has her mother's good looks and sadly her father's appetite and incontinence. Nick Nikic, AJ Aronstein, and Charlie Bonello were old nerds in Chicago for AJ's bachelor party. Nick dressed too fancy, AJ went to sleep early, and Charlie lost more hair. Ronald Zuvich and his wife, Kristina, welcomed their first child, Alexandra Victoria, into the world on July 1, weighing in at 9 lbs., 9 oz. and measuring 22 inches long. The Zuvich family is happy and healthy and just took their first family trip to Vermont. John Latella wed Julia Forman on October 5, 2019, at the Water Club in New York City. Regians in attendance were John's two brothers, Blaise Latella '04 and Luke Latella '10, and John's classmates Kevin Brennan, Ken Coffin, Jaime Davila, Pietro Deserio, Juan Maldonado, William Marra, Sean Murphy, and Pablo Torre. Judge Michael Gaffey P'23 presided over the ceremony and added another Regis connection! John continues to serve as an Assistant District Attorney in the Appeals Bureau of the Nassau County District Attorney's Office. Julia is a Continuous Improvement Coach at New Visions for Public Schools. John and Julia reside in Manhattan and always look forward to seeing friends, especially Regians.

On June 22, Neil Hannan and Natalie Hejduk were married at St. Ignatius Loyola Church across the street from Regis. Neil and Natalie met at Princeton, originally connecting over a shared love of the classics (they met in a Homeric Greek class — it was eros at first sight). Fr. Bender, SJ '67 concelebrated a beautiful ceremony. Congratulations Neil and Natalie! John Valiplackal married his high school sweetheart, Jacienta “Jessa” Paily, on Sunday, Aug. 11th at the St. Thomas Syro Malabar Catholic Forane Church in the Bronx. Present at the ceremony and reception were members of the bum squad: Chris Gutierrez, Bryce Ingram, and Sidesh

A large group of Regents tailgating in support of Charlie Bostwick '18 as he competes in the NBA2KLeague on behalf of the Golden State Warriors.

Though accepted in 2018, Michal deferred his enrollment for a year to participate in Princeton's Novogratz Bridge Year Program, wherein he spent seven months learning Mandarin in the morning and teaching English to migrant children in the afternoon. He then traveled for a month throughout Western China with his Bridge Year group. The "You Can Too" Program is a volunteer mentoring and tutoring program founded in 2019 by Ikenna David Nebo and co-managed by Tigidankay Saccob. Unfortunately, far too often black, brown, and Latinx students lack the structure and support that they need to pursue academic excellence. This and many other obstacles create difficult academic environments and unfortunately, cause many minority students to give up on school entirely. Thus, the "You Can Too" program came to be. By sending accomplished black, brown, and Latinx college students into minority dominated schools to tutor and mentor the students, "You Can Too" hopes to show aspiring students they too can be successful. Charlie Bostwick writes: "I've been blessed with the opportunity to represent the Golden State Warriors under Warriors Gaming in the NBA2KLeague. The NBA2KLeague is the NBA's newest project in the world of esports. There are currently 23 teams (22 NBA Franchises and a Shanghai team) participating in the league in just its third season, which kicks off next March. The league schedule has a regular season, three in season tournaments, and playoffs. Regular season and playoffs are played in New York, while two of the tournaments were played in Las Vegas and Orlando. I was selected 10th overall in the Season two entry level draft by Warriors gaming in March 2019. We have a very successful season in which we won both the turn and the ticket tournaments, and finished in the semifinals of the playoffs. Looking ahead to season three, I was one of three players to be protected for next season and we again look forward to another great year."
